Introduction

What are Priority Heritage at Risk Sites?

Priority Heritage at Risk sites are those sites that English Heritage has identified for additional support to save them for the future. We will be working with owners, developers, trusts and local authorities to find the right solution for these sites with the aim of getting them repaired and back into sustainable use where possible, so they can be removed from the Heritage at Risk Register.

Solutions will vary from site to site, possibly with more than one option and so the support that English Heritage will provide is site and option dependent. The different kinds of support could include one or more activities such as expert local advice, partnership working with local authorities, updated information on the significance of the site to aid understanding, and grant aid.

For further information or to discuss a site on the priority list contact the relevant English Heritage office.

Does a development/planning brief exist for the site? If yes, when was this produced	North Mill: No, but previous options appraisals have been undertaken. Darley Abbey Mills: Yes - Derby City Council commissioned a Regeneration Strategy (September 2010).
Is the site eligible to receive EH grant aid? If yes, for what type of work/project?	North Mill: Available information does not indicate a conservation deficit, hence unlikely to be eligible for EH grant. Darley Abbey Mills: Yes. A project development grant has been offered. Urgent temporary repairs to roofs of North Mill, Mill Managers House and preparation building (proto-fireproof building). Various other high level works to other mill buildings may be eligible, depending upon ability to meet criteria in each case.
Original use	North Mill: Textile Mill. Darley Abbey Mills: multi-phase cotton textile factory.
Last known use	North Mill: Currently in partial use as museum and commercial offices. Darley Abbey Mills: Darley Abbey Mills (south complex): textile factory (north complex): currently a mix of light industrial and office use with part vacancy (preparation building, cottage, workshop): currently a mix of light industrial, office, commercial use with part vacancy.
Potential future uses	North Mill: current use as a museum and offices likely to continue. Alternative uses would require thorough exploration in terms of their economic viability and impact on the special interest of the building. Potential uses for the wider site, including the grade II listed East Mill, were examined as part of an Economic Development Plan commissioned by the Derwent Valley Mills World Heritage Site Partnership. Darley Abbey Mills: some uses may continue. Alternative uses would require thorough exploration in terms of their economic viability and impact on the special interest of the buildings. Potential uses for the wider site were examined as part of the Darley Abbey

	Mills Regeneration Strategy and as part of an Economic Development Plan commissioned by the Derwent Valley Mills World Heritage Site Partnership.
Date that the site has been vacant since If in use/part use, please state	North Mill: In partial use. Attic storey is vacant and has been since approximately 2000. Darley Abbey Mills (south complex): vacant (north complex); continuing in partial use; preparation building, cottage, workshop, cart sheds: continuing in partial use.
Which areas of the site are known to be of concern?	North Mill: The roof is of particular concern. Temporary roof repairs, in the form of periodic coatings of a waterproof membrane over Welsh slates and gutters, have been carried out. However, damp continues to penetrate the roof and re-roofing is required. The condition of the buildings is currently being monitored by the local planning authority and English Heritage. Darley Abbey Mills: there are areas of concern throughout the whole site, including: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • roofs • brickwork to buildings, particularly at high level • timberwork (fenestration, doors)

Snibston Colliery, Ashby Road, North West Leicestershire, East Midlands

Name of priority site	Snibston Colliery, Ashby Road, North West Leicestershire, East Midlands
Name of site(s) as published on the HAR Register Search for this site on the online Heritage at Risk Register	Snibston Colliery, Ashby Road
Link to NHLE summary	http://list.english-heritage.org.uk/resultsingle.aspx?uid=1018472
Does a development/planning brief exist for the site? If yes, when was this produced	No - not applicable for conservation of this scheduled site. There is, however, a Conservation Plan for the site which includes a detailed condition survey as the basis for a major repair project. This was completed in March 2009.
Is the site eligible to receive EH grant aid? If yes, for what type of work/project?	Yes. EH signalled a willingness to consider favourably a grant application for £50K in conjunction with an indication from the Heritage Lottery Fund to provide £4.2M. Leicestershire CC considered for some time whether to proceed with the formalities required to unlock the HLF project, but ultimately declined to apply. However, LCC committed funds for urgently necessary repairs over the next two years. These are now nearing completion. LCC has undertaken public consultation on the closure and demolition of the Snibston Discovery Museum gallery building, alternative development on the site, and a heritage offer based on the history of the colliery. A decision on the future of the site is expected in the autumn of 2014.
Original use	Coal mining
Last known use	Museum and education focused on coal-mining, technology and social history.
Potential future uses	Museum and education
Date that the site has been vacant since If in use/part use, please state	In use, but parts of the site are inaccessible due to Health and Safety issues arising from the poor condition of the buildings and

The Station Conservation Area, Nottingham

Name of priority site, including District and Region	The Station Conservation Area, City of Nottingham, East Midlands
Name of site(s) as published on the HAR Register Search for this site on the online Heritage at Risk Register	The Station, Nottingham
Link to NHLE summary	Not applicable.
Does a development/planning brief exist for the site?	Not specifically for the entire conservation area, but a number of proposed developments and development plans affect the conservation area. There is a draft development brief for Station Street (April 2012).
Is the site eligible to receive EH grant aid? If yes, for what type of work/project?	Yes in principle. Partnership-type schemes (PSiCAs).
Original use	Thoroughfares, retail, commercial, industrial and transport premises based on the railway gateway to central Nottingham.
Last known use	Not applicable. Industrial uses have declined and office uses have increased.
Potential future uses	Important gateway to Nottingham that should support a vibrant mix of uses and encourage visits to central Nottingham.
Date that the site have been vacant since	Not applicable. There are several individual vacant properties.
Which areas of the site are known to be of concern?	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Vacant and poorly maintained buildings give a 'run down' appearance to this important gateway site. • Large scale development threatens individual historic buildings and the character of the area.

	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Levelled sites create huge gaps in street frontages. • Busy roads create hostile pedestrian environment and inhibit appreciation of the area. • The Station Conservation Area is intertwined with the Canal Conservation Area, which suffers the same issues (for example, on the adjoining Carrington Street). • The site is abutted by the Broadmarsh Centre, the redevelopment of which has been a focus of three Urban Panel visits and a presentation to English Heritage's Advisory Committee.
Is the site for sale?	Not in its entirety. Individual sites and premises are for sale.

Bentley Hall Barn, Babergh, Suffolk, East of England

Name of priority site	Bentley Hall Barn, Babergh, Suffolk, East of England
Name of site(s) as published on the HAR Register Search for this site on the online Heritage at Risk Register	Barn north east of Bentley Hall, Bentley Hall Road, Bentley, Suffolk
Link to NHLE summary	http://list.english-heritage.org.uk/resultsingle.aspx?uid=1351965
Does a development/planning brief exist for the site?	No
Is the site eligible to receive EH grant aid?	Yes
If yes, for what type of work/project?	Support for Babergh District Council, in service of enforcement action.
Original use	The barn was built between 1580 and 1600 and is of sixteen bay timber frame construction. A manorial barn with twin threshing floors and raised first floor platform reputedly associated with manorial courts.
Last known use	Storage of agricultural machinery and bat roost.
Potential future uses	The barn is a nationally important site for bats. Seven species have been recorded as roosting there, with some species using it as a maternity roost. This clearly has significant implications for the repair and future use of the building. The Bat Conservation Trust (BCT) has already made an assessment and an updated ecological report could be prepared at the same time as the Schedule of Repairs. A licence from Natural England will be required, and the programming of the repairs and service of any Repairs Notice will have to be carefully timed to avoid disturbance to the bats. The Bentley Hall Barn Building Preservation Trust (BHBBPT) was established in 2007 with the ambition to acquire the barn complex to use it as an education and interpretation centre. Such a use has the advantage of being entirely compatible with nature conservation interests. It is understood that the BHBBPT will be eligible to apply for Heritage Lottery Fund funding if it acquires the barn following the service of a Compulsory Purchase Order. English Heritage has indicated that it would be able to assist in negotiations with BHBBPT, the Bat Conservation Trust and the Heritage Lottery Fund.

Date that the site have been vacant since	2004
Which areas of the site are known to be of concern?	The barn has been on the English Heritage Heritage at Risk Register since 2004. The building is now structurally unstable and water penetration is accelerating decay of the historic fabric. The roof is leaking and rainwater goods are in poor condition. Water is discharging onto the timber frame and infill panels below, and some sections are rotted out. The barn has now racked laterally and longitudinally. Surroundings overgrown; partially collapsed outbuildings channel water on to historic fabric.
Is the site for sale?	No

Does a development/planning brief exist for the site? If yes, when was this produced	Yes, in that the chapel will be a Cemetery chapel in connection with the new use of its land as an RC Cemetery. Draft Development Appraisal and proposed business plan received with EH grant application in June 2009.
Is the site eligible to receive EH grant aid? If yes, for what type of work/project?	It has received a grant for project development and urgent repairs to the external envelope. Work is in progress. The conservation of the interior will be a future phase for which an application has not yet been submitted.
Original use	Chapel/Mausoleum
Last known use	As above
Potential future uses	As above
Date that the site has been vacant since If in use/part use, please state	Not known – the feasibility study of March 2008 notes that the building has been redundant for a number of years. Essex County Council's BAR Register of 1995 records the chapel as not in use.
Which areas of the site are known to be of concern?	The fine polychrome decoration and detailing of the Gothic Revival interior.

Denver Mill, Sluice Road,
Kings Lynn, Norfolk, East of England

Name of priority site	Denver Mill, Kings Lynn, Norfolk, East of England
Name of site(s) as published on the HAR Register Search for this site on the online Heritage at Risk Register	Denver Mill, Sluice Road
Link to NHLE summary	http://list.english-heritage.org.uk/resultsingle.aspx?uid=1077850
Does a development/planning brief exist for the site?	Yes
Is the site eligible to receive EH grant aid? If yes, for what type of work/project?	Yes, for repairs to the structure and envelope.
Original use	Tower mill, built in 1835 and continuing in working order for over a century until 1941, when a lightning strike severely damaged the cap. The mill used, successively, wind power, steam, oil and diesel engines to continue to grind corn until 1969. A varied period of redundancy and restoration followed until the mill was brought back into full working order in 2000.
Last known use	Milling.
Potential future uses	All machinery survives, including key components for milling, as well as supplementary steam and oil engines, each housed in separate buildings, and an associated workshop. The whole site is an interesting industrial complex, which is open to the public as a museum. The outbuildings house a café and visitor centre.
Date that the site have been vacant since	Milling ceased on site in 1941, when one of the sails was struck by lightning. The owner maintained the mill tower

	until his death in 1969. The site was acquired by Norfolk County Council in 1971 and there followed a lengthy period of preservation and conservation as a result of successive weather-related disasters. At the end of 1998, extensive plans were laid for a complete restoration of the whole site. The mill site is now owned by Norfolk Historic Buildings Trust.
Which areas of the site are known to be of concern?	The tower is covered in cementitious render and painted with a non-breathable coating, making the interior of the mill extremely damp, causing timber decay and threatening to undermine the structural integrity of the brick. Internal fixings are also severely corroded. The sails have been removed, one having collapsed when the supporting steel stock unexpectedly gave way.

Friston Post Mill, Aldeburgh, Suffolk Coastal, Suffolk
East of England

Name of priority site	Friston Post Mill, Aldeburgh, Suffolk Coastal, East of England
Name of site(s) as published on the HAR Register Search for this site on the online Heritage at Risk Register	Friston Post Mill, Mill Road
Link to NHLE summary	http://list.english-heritage.org.uk/resultsingle.aspx?uid=1215741
Does a development/planning brief exist for the site?	No
Is the site eligible to receive EH grant aid?	Yes, due to its condition, but the owner is investigating the possibility of Heritage Lottery Fund funding.
If yes, for what type of work/project?
Original use	There was milling on site from 1812. The mill worked on four sails until 1943 and then on two until 1956. Engine powered milling continued until 1966. In the early 1970s an application for demolition was refused. Money was raised locally and repairs started on the mill in 1971 and on the death of the last miller in 1972, a new owner bought the mill, mill house, two mill cottages and outbuildings. In 1977, the body of the mill was restored by the Messrs Jameson Marshall, millwrights. In 2003, English Heritage awarded a grant towards the cost of the repairs which then needed doing to the mill. In 2004 steel supports were erected to prevent the leaning post mill from topping onto neighbouring properties and subsequent loss of fabric.
Last known use	Milling flour.

Potential future uses	The mill and surrounding complex has the potential to be brought back into full working use and run as a training and museum centre, for milling and mill-wrighting crafts and skills. The owner is investigating the possibility of HLF funding for repairs to key buildings on site, including the post mill and schemes for community involvement.
Date that the site has been vacant since	1972, although one of the millers' cottages is currently let.
Which areas of the site are known to be of concern?	The trestle timbers which support the main post have been attacked by deathwatch beetle and have fractured and need major repair. The trestle timbers are temporarily propped. The central post is off-centre and requires repairing and re-setting to vertical. Many of the curved ribs framing the roof to the body of the post mill, known as the 'buck' have rotted and need repair or renewal, and all weatherboards on the buck are now rotting and admitting water, due to insufficient overlapping and a need of maintenance. The timber work of the steps and fantail is now rotten and beyond repair. The sails have gone.

	development of the site into a 'business park for vintage car restoration enthusiasts'. The domestic site has been developed for housing largely through the conversion of existing buildings, and with minimal new build.
Which areas of the site are known to be of concern?	The RAF Bicester Conservation Area has been removed from the Heritage at Risk Register this year, as a result of the combined efforts of City and Country Developments and Bicester Heritage on the domestic and technical sites respectively. It is the condition of the scheduled structures to the east of the flying fields that keep the site on the Register. Although Bicester Heritage Limited have good intentions to address the condition of these structures in the near future, at present they remain largely derelict.
Is the site for sale?	No. The technical site was sold by MOD on 27/03/2013 to Bicester Heritage Limited, and City and Country Developments are marketing the domestic site as 'The Garden Quarter'.
